WORKSHOP 2: TRANSFORMATIVE TOOLS

P DETAILS
How do we rebuild shattered lives, sustain change and heal minds? What are some tools we can use? In th workshop we explore the transformative tools of listening, thinking, feeling, talking, and sharing stories and dreams, together. There are more tools in our tool box which can be helpful!
This workshop will help tool up participants to develop a deeper understanding of how to transform and heal emotional states of turbulence and trauma.
<ul> <li>communities in conflict or crisis</li> <li>'at risk' groups of men, women, or youth</li> <li>mental health workers and organisations working with people who are 'at risk'</li> </ul>
Pamela Nathan Clinical and Forensic Psychologist and Psychoanalytic Psychotherapist with over 30 years of experience in Central Australia.
All CASSE's workshops are based in clinical psychology and include psychoanalytic paradigms. Psychoanalytic can be very practical. It is a body of knowledge and method of therapy which helps to deepen understanding and change one's mind and heart. In these workshops, we bring a mindful analytic perspective, and apply it and use it in organisational and community settings. In this space, CASSE encourages interactive workshops which work with your stories and experiences.
